BETTER BUTTER

Vegetarian Justin Gold was unsatisfied with the traditional brands of peanut butter he found on the shelves at his local grocery store, so he created Justin's Nut Butter from organic Valencia peanuts. Justin's mission was to create "amazing nut butters made with the highest quality organic and natural ingredients." Justin's Nut Butter is USDA-certified organic, sweetened naturally with honey and is cholesterol and trans-fat free. The nutritious and delicious peanut butter is available at health food stores and online in 16-ounce jars ($6) in four unique flavors:

heavenly honey, sinfully cinnamon, pumpkin pie and honey almond. The spreads are great on bread, crackers, bananas, apples, celery, muffins and other foods. CONTACT: Justin's Nut Butter, (303)449-9559, www.justinsnutbutter.com. —S.W.

BOOKS

PERILS AT THE POLE

So was it Dr. Frederick A. Cook or Commander Robert E. Peary and Matthew Henson who first visited the North Pole in 1909? Actually, maybe neither party reached the Pole, writes Andrew C. Revkin in his fascinating and lavishly illustrated book The North Pole Was Here: Puzzles and Perils at the Top of the World (Kingfisher/ New York Times, $15.95). Given the conditions these men encountered and the lack of sophisticated instrumentation, it may well be that no one actually visited the Pole until Joseph Fletcher, who arrived via plane in 1952.

Revkin's book, aimed at younger readers but suitable for adults, too, contains a brisk account of polar exploration. Its central purpose, however, is to alert the world to the vast changes wrought by global warming. As the weather warms, vast amounts of melt-
